

LIVELY DAY AT ELIZABETH.

FEATURES OF THE NEW JERSEY JOCKEY CLUB'S OPENING DAY.

Excellence and Fun in the Ring—Bookmakers Arrested—A Trophy and Trophy Awarded—Lively Races.

Several thousand regular racegoers attended the opening of the fall meeting of the New Jersey Jockey Club at Elizabeth yesterday. The great betting ring was uncomfortably crowded long before the horses started for the post in the first race. Seventy odd bookmakers had staked their stakes for business, and groups of eager investors were massed in front of each.

Shortly after the racers had a lively competition break loose in the ring. Two of the bookmakers had been arrested by New Jersey constables on the old car that battened at a race course. A New Jersey constable under the head of keeping disorderly houses. In a twinkling the other bookmakers jumped down from their perches in front of their cars and retired to the rear. Nurses were taken down from the tops of the sides on which the odds were chalked, and all were in a condition of feverish activity. Within a short time the association bonds for the appearance of the meet and business continued. But there was a little fun, nevertheless. Two persistent officers of the law attempted to serve warrants during the afternoon, but each time they approached a stand to make an arrest a squad of Pickett's men, who keep order at the races, closed in on the constables without using any force, but the Jersey officers saw that if they carried out their intention of serving the warrant the circus of open bookmaking would have to stop. So shortly he sent to California within a few days to take his place in the stud at the great breeding farm of Mr. Haggan, as printed in yesterday's paper. He is a good man, and preferable to Mr. Haggan in the stud as has on the turf, he will win another fortune. He has already won $114,885 for his owner, a three-year-old, $69,000; four-year-old, $80,200.

The King of Race Horses.

The report that Salvator had been sent to Sacramento to be retired to the stud is premature. The famous race horse was eating his oats quietly at Monmouth Park yesterday morning, in company with Mr. Haggan's string of race horses that will winter at the track. But it was said by an official of America's newest racing center that Salvator will be sent to California within a few days to take his place in the stud at the great breeding farm of Mr. Haggan, as printed in yesterday's paper. He is a good man, and preferable to Mr. Haggan in the stud as has on the turf, he will win another fortune. He has already won $114,885 for his owner, a three-year-old, $69,000; four-year-old, $80,200.

GALORE SOLD FOR $30,000.

Mr. Morris Secures the Stallions at the Sale of the Ferncliff Stud.

A large number of breeders and others interested in thoroughbreds gathered at the Eastern Sales Paddocks, Hunt's Point, yesterday morning, eager to secure the stallions and mares of the Ferncliff Stud. Visitors began to arrive by the early trains, and when Mr. Eason proceeded to dispose of the stock he found himself facing a notable gathering, including J. A. Morris, J. B. Haggan, Pierre Lorillard, Major B. G. Thomas, W. Wadell, Dr. Carter, J. E. Kittson, Jas. Galway, M. Young, E. Leigh, Chas. Reed, Henry Miller, W. L. Lincoln, D. B. Withers, E. Hancock, L. C. Jones, and a host of other well-known gentlemen. All of the mares were surprised to be in town, and of course they said readily, "Mr. J. A. Morris, we want to buy your mares." He secured the famous imported stallion Galore at a cost of $10,000. Mr. Morris intends going into the breeding business of his own, and the other purchases of the day, which were made by the importers, were suspended in the absence of the owner, R. McKane.

Jockeys Trifles were suspended for the meeting for disorders conduct at the post.

THE FIRST RACE.

Volunteer headed the field at the start. Nelle Bly getting off fast, but the little filly made a wonderful run. While Volunteer was making the turn, the jockey of the stable boy, was moving Nelle Bly along on the outside, gradually forcing to the front, which she never did. She came home in second, while a dead heat with Gatsby, a brother to Old mondo, each carrying 120 pounds. The stakes were divided.

The horses were sold this:
